HYMN #163

For the Earth Forever Turning

For the earth forever turning; for the skies, for ev'ry sea;
 for our lives, for all we cherish, sing we our joyful song of peace.

For the mountains, hills, and pastures in their silent majesty;
 for the stars, for all the heavens, sing we our joyful song of peace.

For the sun, for rain and thunder, for the seasons' harmony, for our lives, for all creation, sing we our joyful praise to Thee.

For the world we raise our voices, for the home that gives us birth;
 in our joy we sing returning home to our bluegreen hills of earth.

Notes on Today's Music

Prelude

Song of the Earth Spirit

David L. Brunner, music

Stephen C. Jett, words from Navajo Wildlands

It is lovely indeed, it is lovely indeed.

I am the spirit within the earth...

The feet of the earth are my feet...

The legs of the earth are my legs...

The bodily strength of the earth is my bodily strength...

It is lovely indeed, it is lovely indeed.

The thoughts of the earth are my thoughts...

The voice of the earth is my voice...

The feather of the earth is my feather...

It is lovely indeed, it is lovely indeed.

All that belongs to the earth belongs to me...

All that surrounds the earth, surrounds me...

It is lovely indeed, it is lovely indeed.

I am the sacred words of the earth...

It is lovely indeed.

I am the spirit within the earth...

It is lovely indeed.

The feet of the earth are my feet...

The legs of the earth are my legs...

The thoughts of the earth are my thoughts...

The voice of the earth is my voice...

I am the sacred words of the earth...

It is lovely indeed.

Musical Interlude

The Gospel Isn't Written in the Bible Alone

Elizabeth Alexander, words & music

Terry Lockhart, soloist

"God writes the gospel not in the Bible alone, but on trees, and flowers, and clouds, and stars." -
Anonymous, often erroneously attributed to Martin Luther

The Gospel is written on the trees and flowers, it's written on the wind and the rain,
Recorded on the rock and sediment and sand.

It's written on the glory of the far-off sun, and also on the very near,
Inscribed upon the palm of every open hand.

You can hear it in the thunder, you can read it in the stars,
You can find it under every leaf and stone.

On a page wide as a prairie there's a message large as life:
The Gospel isn't written in the Bible alone.

The Gospel is painted onto fins and scales, it's ruffled into feathers and fur,
It's spun into the seashell's deep and sacred scroll.

Behold it in the voices of the birds at dawn, composers of the Song of Songs,
Discern it in the Acts of every living soul.

Every pebble holds a Proverb, every spider spins a Psalm,
Every seed's a Resurrection of its own.

On a page wide as a prairie there's a message large as life:
The Gospel isn't written in the Bible alone.

Imagine now, if you were God
Setting forth a Gospel for all you're worth,
Why would you settle for a single book
When you could write the Gospel on the whole wide Earth?

The Gospel is moving over darkened seas, it's working in the change and the flow,
It's written in a tongue we long to understand.

We marvel at the beauty of the poetry encoded in the chromosome,
And braided through the length of every twisted strand.

It is molded into muscle, it is whispered into breath,
It is carved into the curve of every bone.

On a page wide as a prairie there's a message large as life:
The Gospel may be written in the Bible —
But it surely isn't written in the Bible alone.

Postlude

Mornings

From Acquaintance With Nature

Texts taken from Thoreau's Walden and the Journals

Gwyneth Walker, music

Morning.

There are from time to time mornings, both in summer and in winter,

Mornings, when especially the world seems anew.

The world has been recreated in the night, Mornings of creation, I call them.

It is the poet's hour. Mornings when we are newborn, we who have the seeds of life in us.

Mornings!
