

MILESTONES

Almost every week, we take time in our worship service to share the milestones of our lives with one another. We bring our concerns and our sorrows, as well as our joys and gladness into this holy space. We speak only of our own experiences and those that touch us directly. Through this sharing we sustain each other and this congregation.

When speaking, we ask that you use a microphone so that you can be heard here in the commons. Tell us your name and, briefly, what joy or sorrow you wish to share.

At this time, I invite you to share any milestones you may have.

Are there any milestones to be shared this morning?

After the sharing...

For all that has been shared, both spoken and unspoken, may we hold these things in our hearts, and may we reach out to one another in love.
